TREACHERY OF BURGHERS IS OFFICIALLY CONFIRMED.

Kruger Warned by Gen. Methuen That the Dastardly Tactics of the Boers
Must Be Stopped.

Associated Press Dispatches by

The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The news of the death of the Khalifa and the final defeat of the Dervishes has been received here with great joy as a welcome set-off to the serious situation in South Africa.

A dispatch from Queenstown, Cape Colony, says that 200 colonial rebels, including an ex-magistrate of Barberton-East, have encountered the enemy at the latter place and that the whole force is reported to be marching.

The Boers, who have been compelled to abandon Intervent

General Gatacre's advance to reoccupy

Stormberg Junction, a strategic point, from which General Gatacre can get in direct touch through the railroad, with

General Methuen and thus with the British base at Durban.

Another dispatch says that the refugees who are arriving from Queenstown assert that Ladygrey has been occupied by the colonial farmers and that there is still general movement in favor of the Boers.

Advices from

Belmont confirming the treacherous use of the white flag by the Boers are arousing indignation.

The troops engaged are bitterly complained of and it is feared the result will be a refusal to give the Boers quarter.

BOER TREACHERY.

A similar incident to the one which occurred at the battle of Glencoe, when an officer was shot by a wounded Boer, is reported by the London Times correspondent. Belmont says that when

General Blundell, the Guardsman Guards was shot by a wounded Boer whom he was tending. Such statements appear incredible, but they are now confirmed officially by the protest of General Methuen, who has issued a memorandum to the Colonial Office, asking him to warn your wounded not to shoot our officers.

I must warn you not to use dum-dum bullets, or use the flag of truce treacherously. Such action is cowardly in the extreme and cannot stand.

All accounts confirm the splendid charges of the British infantry, the Scots-Guards entering the fight with drums beating and rifles playing. The second right is the central position. The Boers were over-shooted and many parts of shoulders. Nevertheless the Guards advanced steadily, many of them

coolly smoking.

BOERS USING DUM-DUMS.

H. F. Knight, well-known war correspondent, who went to Havana during the Spanish-American war, was wounded in the arm by a dum-dum bullet.

The hospital train arrived at Orange River in the nick of time from Cape Town, and was sent to Belmont. The train, constructed on the corridor system, with hoppers in the cars, each gate with its return to Orange river with the wounded it was found that a number of them were able to walk, but there were many stretcher cases.

The train started at 10 A.M. and reached the route from the station to the hospital. The wounded were cheerful and as they limped along supported by medical organizations.

BERKELEY.

Case Discovered in the

Football Training

Quarters.

A case of typhoid fever was discovered this morning in the training quarters of the State University football team at Berkeley.

A dishwasher employed in the kitchen at the training house was found to have a severe case of typhoid fever.

Health Officer Howell at once fumigated

the house.

The football players were ordered off the premises, and the quarters will be closed for the present.

In the meantime the football men and their trainers will dine in Oakland.

TERRIBLE GULF STORM.

Associated Press Dispatches by

The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

MANFORD, Tex., Nov. 25.—Alarming reports come from the Lower Gulf coast of Texas, where winds have been raging. The storm was in the vicinity of Rockport. A number of small vessels have been lost and hundreds of cattle are drowned, having been driven into the gulf by the great force of the wind blowing from the northwest. Many houses have been destroyed, and it is feared that many were lost. Much unseasiness is felt for fishing and yachting parties from Galveston, among which are ex-Mayor Hobart and E. H. Green, the Hearty Green of New York.

A HYMN WRITER DEAD.

many other equally popular hymns. During his life he was a member of the Baptist Church in this city and of the Hanson

Place Baptist Church in Brooklyn.

Associated Press Dispatches by

change Bank at Troy, Ill., eighteen miles from St. Louis, was wrecked by fire about 2:30 A.M., and everything of value was taken.

The robbery occurred between $3,000 and $5,000 in cash and stocks of bonds and other securities and escaped.

PICNICS AT SHIHL MOUNTAIN PARK, Sunday, November 25th—Closing picnic of the season of 1899.

SATURDAY.....NOVEMBER 25, 1899.

The ladies of the Ebell Society can see their finish. It is the one they wanted though, for the goal of triumph will soon be reached.

Aguinaldo is more of a success as a ruler than we have been giving him credit for. He managed to cross our lines with but little difficulty.

It is announced that a railroad is to be built to the original Garden of Eden in Asia. Now for a boom in the apple business in that part of the world—the soil is as fertile there as ever it was.

China is to be conducted on the "wilde open" basis according to the demands that are going up from the Old World as well as from this continent, for Franco is the latest to insist upon an open door there. There are too many good chances in sight for the other nations to be willing to let John Bull run the game all alone.

THE GAME LAWS.

The stand taken by the Supreme Court in the test case brought up from Stanislaus county regarding the game ordinance is of vital interest to all concerned in the movement for the protection of wild game. Now for a boom in the apple business in that part of the world—the soil is as fertile there as ever it was.

The argument of the attorney representing the Hunters' Union, to the effect that as the Legislature has made a general regulation as to the protection of game, Boards of Supervisors cannot take to themselves the power to impose further restrictions, is beyond doubt a strong one. Wild game is common property; that is to say, it belongs to the people of the State, and although the Legislature, speaking for the people, can decree that at certain times of the year the game shall have immunity from attack, when that much is done the restrictive power is ended. For the Board of Supervisors of one county to make local laws infringing upon the property rights of citizens of another part of the State is clearly unconstitutional, and that is what the ordinance forbidding the shipment of game out of a county amounts to, for the moment game is killed the title to it is vested in the hunter who brings it down.

The settlement of this issue practically ends the discrimination that has been exercised against the market hunters. For the past few years the gun clubs and other private organizations have had, during certain periods of the season, a monopoly of the game, and of late the restrictions as to outsiders have become more stringent than ever. It is eminently proper that this unfair system should end, for although every one is anxious to see the game protected, at the same time it is neither right nor reasonable that the general public—that large element that cannot personally go hunting—should be deprived of the opportunity to purchase in open market the toothsome wild fowl or other game that would reach there if the professional hunter were placed on a footing with the private sportsman.

It is practically an establishment of class rights to continue the system that has been gradually growing up in our midst, and the Supreme Court could not do otherwise than to sweep away so un-American a principle.

The cry that will go up from the gun club and private sportsmen, that giving full swing to the market hunters means the destruction of the game interests of the State, cannot be entertained for a moment, for if such be the case, then let the Legislature once more narrow the seasonal limits until at last assurance is obtained that the proper protection will be afforded. That is as far, though, as the restrictions must go, for the "pot-hunter" is every inch as much a citizen as the member of the aristocratic gun club, and its entitled to just as many rights and privileges as far as the common property of the State is concerned.

THE RED CROSS APPEAL.

The appeal of the Red Cross Society of San Francisco for more funds with which to carry on the work brings to mind a condition of affairs across the bay that it is time was fully exploited and determined. As regards the Red Cross Society there can be nothing said but words of praise. The ladies comprising it have without thought or desire of remuneration or reward, labored long and steadfastly at making the conditions more pleasant for the American "Tommy Atkins," and many a homesick soldier boy who reached San Francisco and found himself in a land of strangers, has good occasion to remember for the rest of his life the sympathy and friendship extended to him by the members of the Red Cross.

Not alone has the work of attending to the soldiers' needs while they were here been thoroughly performed, but the Red Cross has reached faraway to Manila and even on the firing line with the troops in the interior, for contributions of tidings and comforts for the sick and wounded have been poured out with lavish hands. Now, with its work uncompleted, the Red Cross finds its treasury empty and obligations pouring in upon it, a condition that has naturally brought about an appeal for aid.

What may be asked, is the become of the surplus of $30,000 in the fund raised by the citizens of San Francisco over two months ago for the entombment of the returning Californians? While no one for a minute questions the integrity or the intentions of those comprising the committee, they must certainly feel that they are open to criticism for not having even signified to the public what they propose to do with the money. The agitation that was stirred up some time ago and resulted in a suit against the committee was very properly resented by them, and though it came to naught as far as the litigation was concerned, it should have been sufficient enough to have stirred the members up to a realization of the fact that being simply trustees of a public fund, they should respond when called upon to state what they intended doing with the money.

The close of the official count across the bay has shattered the hopes of those unlikely candidates who were so near to, and yet so far from, victory. In the "good old days" some of those close contests might have resulted in a counting out, but now that an era of reform has spread over the land, the man who wins a political fight after the polls are closed has to do so on merit.

How proud the American hen would be if she knew that her eggs are selling for $3.00 a dozen at Chap. Norme. There is more satisfaction in being appreciated than any man in having her products going a-begging at 35 cents a dozen, as is frequently the case here in Oland.

Anyway, it is my purely lay opinion that all smalls of powder and apparel, that are not of the most important revolution in the direction of popular liberty that has happened in good while. I cannot speak for the aristocratic class, and maybe individuals who are not too proud to get into trouble, but the Boers are overwhelming superiority of the Boers as sharpshooters. English soldiers often are not used to having their rifles captured bodily. They are won by the sturdy courage and it must be confessed, by the fine generalship of their opponents, who are called upon to face experiences which they do not care to meet.

Being neither a sportsman nor a pot-fumer, I presume I may be permitted by my editor and my other readers, if I may, to express my satisfaction with the British Admiralty. That Anglo-American Alliance must be kept up at all points.

If the population of San Francisco is to be preserved, the men of that city must be invited to less punctilious politeness in dealing with soldiers whose bad when intoxicated is to go gunning for civilians.

Congress, it appears, placed a fatal congress in the way of the Nicaraguan Canal Commission when it appropriated one million dollars for their use. That body now intimates that it will take three or four years to spend that sum.

Being neither a sportsman nor a pot-fumer, I presume I may be permitted by my editor and my other readers, if I may, to express my satisfaction with the British Admiralty. That Anglo-American Alliance must be kept up at all points.

From the pen of the former pastor and Misses Alice and Mary, Dr. Edward H. Bradford, I have received a pair of pretty little volumes that might I should say, be called companion holiday books. They are "The Holy Family," a Christmas edition, and "The Art of Living Alone." Although from the publishers, the former being from that of Fords, Howard & Hurlburt and the latter from Dodd, Mead & Co., both on New York.

Dr. Bradford, as is everywhere known, is too high in his vocation to require commendation for anything that emanates from his thought. For some thirty years he has been the pastor of the First Congregational Church of Atwater, N. J., the largest congregation in his denomination south of New York. He was the favorite occasional substitute of Henry Ward Beecher in Plymouth pulpit during the latter years of that great divine's life, and was seriously considered as his successor.

He declined a call to succeed the late Charles Spurgeon as pastor of the largest religious audience in the world in the London temple.

"The Art of Living Alone" is a reverent and inspiring study of the picture of Muriel in the National gallery in London. It is embellished by sectional photogravure reproductions of that supreme work of art, and is a guide to the reader in the choice of a suitable residence.

"The Renewed Mind" is a practical summary of the recent history of evolution. As this address was pretty fairly reported in the columns of THE TRIBUNE, will reproduce only the application which Mr. William R. Davis made of that particular to the University.

"The University of California has become more than a State University. Henceforth it is a natural agency in the State's western continental growth, and in its overseas jurisdiction and advance of the Orient.

"Its destiny is expanded; its jurisdiction of duty is extended; its mission enlarged; its opportunities enhanced. No student, body, no body of students, can be more than a State University in the moral form and outline. Perhaps it is their underlying note of sadness, their intense personal perception of the burden of misery resting upon mankind, against which they are striving, as they are, to alleviate it, and gradually to remove it.

"The author makes obvious efforts to make his book an easy reader, and the illustrations are numerous and well executed.

"The "Perils of Loneliness" is divided into five chapters entitled "The Perils of Solitude," "The Compensations of Solitude," "The Renewed Mind," "The Art of Living Alone," and "The Art of Keeping Up." These helpfulnesses in all of these treatises, particularly notably in "What about Books." There is somewhat in them that reminds the reader of the sermons of Frederick W. Robertson, although to this advantage, it is not without an added dash.

Did You Ever Move?

DISCUSSED THE CHARITY PROBLEM.

At the meeting of the Starr King Fraternity last evening, the question of charity and its relief was discussed.

Dr. Edward von Adelstot presided, and the speakers were Professor A. O. Lovejoy of the Department of Philosophy of Stanford University, Professor R. M. Cooley of the Department of Economics of Stanford, Miss. Weston, Mayor Snow and Rev. E. Foy Mills.

The best way to meet the great evil of pauperism was dwelt upon, and the conclusion reached by the speakers that such lies in stamping out the cause. The meeting was a most interesting one.

"Honest Labor Bears a Lovely Face."

SOCIETY NEWS.

strength and to be surrounded by admiring friends and devoted children is indeed an event of rare and exceeding interest.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Niedt was handsomely decorated for the occasion. Fresh flowers, roses, lilies, carnations, pinks, and violets, with no inter-tangles, graced the windows, filling the apartments and the picture and odor of the parterre greeted, in a graceful manner, the senses of all the participants on the happy occasion.

The bride and her extended congratulations to the bride and groom and sons and daughters gave indisputable evidence of filial love for their aged parents.

There was nuptial banquets around which sat the invited guests and to the viands of which they were treated. They were speechless too, speechless on any such an occasion would inspire. The aged couple were congratulated again and again, their wedded life was complimented and the heartiest expressions of hope for a long and prosperous continuation of life were indulged by everybody.

The occasion was full of happy incidents and circumstances, one of the most unusual of which was the presence of a nuptial ring, the history of which extends back to the year 1824. This ring, which had been given to the bride by her grandfather, was passed down through the generations, having been continued indefinitely down the ages. It is needless to remark that the ring was an object of curiosity to the guests as it was of love to the people whom it had bound so well.

Another point of interest was a Bible which bore the date of 1768, which had been presented to Mr. Niedt by a member of his family many years ago.

Mr. Niedt was born October 27, 1852, in Germany, and was educated there until the age of 18, when he came to America. In 1873, the year he came to this country, he was a year younger than I was. He married me in St. Louis, Missouri, where they joined hands for life and for eternity, the room in the meantime having passed with undimmed distinction through the war with Mexico.

On November 22, 1884, Mr. and Mrs. Niedt left St. Louis in an ox-team and toiled slowly over prairie and mountain toward the Golden West, arriving in San Francisco on December 1st, the same year after hardships and privations which more than once tested the endurance and the pluck of the immigrants.

Six children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Niedt, five boys and one girl, all of whom are now dead, and all of whom also, with one exception, that of Anton Niedt, a son, resident in Smith, Nevada, were present at the jubilee. There were also present four nieces, children of Anton and Alice Niedt, Jr., Misses Ollie and Elsie Niedt, and Master Harry Niedt. There was also in attendance Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Niedt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Niedt, Ed. W. Niedt, and Mrs. John Niedt, Miss Anna Niedt, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Muller, Mr. and Mrs. Emerich, Mr. and Mrs. Michelman, Mr. and Mrs. H. Richter, Mr. and Mrs. John Bohrer, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohrer, Mr. and Mrs. McCarron, James Rankin, Mr. McCarl, Jas. Ratclay, Wm. Chalmers.

SENIOR TEA.

The senior class of Miss Head's School at Berkeley gave a charming tea to their many friends on Wednesday afternoon from 5 o'clock until 7.

The young ladies acted as hostesses on the occasion and, prettily gowned, received the guests. Tea and light refreshments were served and a music made the afternoon pass most delightfully.

CHARMING MUSICALE.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Keeling gave a very delightful musicale at her home, 1673 Thirteenth street. The young lady possesses a rich, contralto voice of unusual sweetness and power, and has but recently come from New York where she has been studying under W. D. Bacheller, of that city.

Miss Keeling was assisted by Miss von Manderscheid, the talented young composer, who repeated several original piano selections in a charming manner.

The following program was given:

The Koegel residence was prettily decorated for the event with potted palms, violets, and smilax. Daylight was excluded, and the rooms were brightened with lights having pretty pinkish shades.

After the music, dainty refreshments were served.

The guests who enjoyed a decided musical evening, may be mentioned that of Miss Marion Adelheid, a young and elegant young woman, and Lieutenant Henry H. Eastman of the Tennessee regiment, which took place on Wednesday at high noon at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Higgins, on Chetwood street, Linda Vista, Pasadena.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Clark of Burlingame, late Chaplain of the Seventh Regiment of California Volunteers.

The decorations were of American beauty roses, ferns, palms and evergreens. Handmade American flags lent color and brightness to the scene. The marriage took place beneath a canopy of trees.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eva Belle Higgins, as maid of honor. Little Alberta Higgins was the best man. The groom, best man and officiating clergyman were attired in full uniform.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of heavy white satin, made in train. A bertha of rare point lace, the gift of her grandmother, adorned the corsage. She wore a veil of tulle and carried a shower bouquet of roses.

The maid of honor wore a gown of white organdy made over taffeta silk, and appliqued with lace. She carried a bunch of American beauty roses.

Miss Alberta Higgins, the ring bearer, was a most attractive young woman.

About fifty guests were present at the ceremony, including the staff officers of the Tennessee regiment.

A wedding breakfast was served, after which Lieutenant Eastman and his bride left for a short wedding tour. The young couple will shortly go to Nashville, where the parents of Lieutenant Eastman reside.

Many kindly gifts were received by the young couple.

Inside News About the Railroad

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, November 25.—Before launching forth into the customary political sphere it will perhaps be as well to first dispose of some important gossip that is going the rounds of those "close to the throne" in railroad circles, and none of which, by the way, has so far appeared in print.

The moment the news went forth that C. P. Huntington had succeeded in reciting the dream of his life and had obtained supreme control over the Southern Pacific Company and all things pertaining to it, everybody was seized with the most important changes would be made. Their reasons were good ones, consisting as they did of the fact that at the Hobart Building, Third and Townsend and other central railroad points there are numerous employees who owe their position to the personal influence of the Crokers, Stanfords, and now that that is removed the connecting link that held them is gone. Many of this element will go beyond doubt, but apart from that there are rumors which affect those who are not affiliated with whose termination of service with the Southern Pacific is the last thing that some people would think of.

Krutschoff will remain where he is, and may, indeed, be vested with more power than at present, for he is a man on whom Mr. Huntington can rely. For many years he was in charge of the division centering at El Paso, Texas, and he attracted considerable attention to himself by the judgment he displayed in handling the trains that became blocked after a disastrous fire at Agua Calientes. Such was the last thing that some people would think of.

J. C. Sturtevant is also safe, for he is recognized as one of the central figures of the railroad world. It is, in fact, to Huntington's influence that he owes much of the advancement that has been during the past ten years for the various presidents have been more than pleased with the manner in which the traffic department has been handled. It will be a case of advancement, therefore, rather than ought else, as far as Sturtevant is concerned.

W. H. Mills is another general officer who is remained unscathed. His affairs are as remunerative and pronounced that each succeeding administration has always gladly recognized them, and no matter whether the Crokers, Stanfords or Huntington's were on top, it has always been a sure thing that he will remain where he is until it takes an exceptionally strong hand to remove him.

Division Superintendent Agler of Oakland is said to be perfectly satisfactory to Southern Pacific in California, and there can, of course, be no question as to W. H. Mills' power in that regard.

In the passenger department, though the hushed voice of rumor is busy. When a few months ago, McCormick came from the East to certain ends of the country, he left a record of great discontent that something was in the wind, and although those who have been figuring out the situation do not see very far together clearly, they at least think they can discern where several dislocative changes may be made.

Agler, Goodrich, may not be entirely reliable, he will nevertheless remain where he is, for he has at his fingers' ends details that could only be obtained by the work of a lifetime.

That there will be no change in the Hobart Building is among of the surer changes in connection with the new head.

W. F. Herin has always been what is known as a Huntington man, for he was placed where he is by the present president, who had been attracted to him by his singular ability he displayed in conducting the affairs of the Spring Valley branch.

Thoughtful men say that he has been the acknowledged representative of Mrs. Stanford's interests under the old regime. Such, however, is not to be the case. President Huntington personally thinks a great deal of Gage, and the very men who are most popular in the business world are the ones who are continuing in his particular department.

His particular department is the Iron Coal and Iron Company, one of the chief corporations of the Southern Pacific, of which he is president and general manager. In addition to mining interests, he has made a large of those papers that are reading the columns of the power and steel experts on the iron and steel market.

He is said to be well backed for the official gathering, and though the information is that effect comes from a strong source in many ways, it scarcely seems possible that such can be the case.

John W. Davis, the political editor of the Sacramento Bee, has been writing a column in the Sacramento Bee, and he is said to be the man who is to be the new head of the traffic department.

As to the effect of the consolidation of interests upon the Market Street Railway Company even speculation must be silent.

Should, however, Quay's fight prove a losing one, then the man would not be far wrong who would prophesy that within a very short time he will be the chairman of the Crokers, Stanfords and Huntington.

On the other hand, though it is claimed that he has been kept in his position through the personal influence of the Crokers and that Krutschoff is not over-friendly toward him, all of which is not, however, beyond question.

One item more about the railroad, and that is that with the first of the coming year the Pacific Improvement Company will move to the Orooker Building, where the powers that be, and in consequence safe. Agler is recognized as a practical railroad man in every sense of the expression, and the way he has handled the responsible work of the terminal division since Weller's death has entombed him in the esteem of his superiors.

Though Jerome Shadon as head of the land department is invaluable from the point of view personal knowledge regarding that branch of the railroad work it is thought that a reorganization may be effected involving that particular office, but it will not be made public.

Under the present conditions, though, he will undoubtedly remain where he is, for he has at his fingers' ends details that could only be obtained by the work of a lifetime.

Thoughtful men say that he has been the acknowledged representative of Mrs. Stanford's interests under the old regime. Such, however, is not to be the case. President Huntington personally thinks a great deal of Gage, and the very men who are most popular in the business world are the ones who are continuing in his particular department.

His particular department is the Iron Coal and Iron Company, one of the chief corporations of the Southern Pacific, of which he is president and general manager. In addition to mining interests, he has made a large of those papers that are reading the columns of the power and steel experts on the iron and steel market.

He is said to be well backed for the official gathering, and though the information is that effect comes from a strong source in many ways, it scarcely seems possible that such can be the case.

John W. Davis, the political editor of the Sacramento Bee, has been writing a column in the Sacramento Bee, and he is said to be the man who is to be the new head of the traffic department.

As to the effect of the consolidation of interests upon the Market Street Railway Company even speculation must be silent.

Should, however, Quay's fight prove a losing one, then the man would not be far wrong who would prophesy that within a very short time he will be the chairman of the Crokers, Stanfords and Huntington.

On the other hand, though it is claimed that he has been kept in his position through the personal influence of the Crokers and that Krutschoff is not over-friendly toward him, all of which is not, however, beyond question.

One item more about the railroad, and that is that with the first of the coming year the Pacific Improvement Company

will move to the Orooker Building, where the powers that be, and in consequence safe. Agler is recognized as a practical railroad man in every sense of the expression, and the way he has handled the responsible work of the terminal division since Weller's death has entombed him in the esteem of his superiors.

Though Jerome Shadon as head of the land department is invaluable from the point of view personal knowledge regarding that branch of the railroad work it is thought that a reorganization may be effected involving that particular office, but it will not be made public.

Under the present conditions, though, he will undoubtedly remain where he is, for he has at his fingers' ends details that could only be obtained by the work of a lifetime.

That there will be no change in the Hobart Building is among of the surer changes in connection with the new head.

W. F. Herin has always been what is known as a Huntington man, for he was placed where he is by the present president, who had been attracted to him by his singular ability he displayed in conducting the affairs of the Spring Valley branch.

WHERE TO BUY A PIANO.

How to Select It.

An elegant piano in a home is a source of perpetual pleasure, but many are unable to obtain it because the price of a strictly first-class instrument is beyond the reach of the average well-to-do family. It is with this in view that we call your attention to make The Grand Piano Co. ship all of their pianos here in carload lots all about half the usual freight. They buy for spot cash and give discounts on all of their goods; their store rent is small and they employ no agents.

What makes the price of a piano so high? We will tell you. The expenses connected with the business, the cost of carriage, commissions, employing carriers, heavy rent, etc.

Why should our people go to San Francisco, when they can go far better at The Grand Piano Co.? We are convinced that you can buy a good piano for at least $300 to $400 less than you can buy the same grade in San Francisco, besides securing better service and keeping your piano in the Showroom and the wonderful Skinner pianos and other makes. The prices are from $250 up. Call at The Grand Piano Co. and examine their large stock.

DOINGS IN STAGELAND.

Nance O'Neil Tonight as Nancy Sykes--New Bill at Macdonough.

Nance O'Neil gave another proof of the versatility of her genius last night by singing a patriotic solo as Lucy Tingle in "The School for Scandal." She displayed comedy powers of the highest order, and the big audience that packed the Macdonough rewarded her brilliant and spontaneous delivery of the comic sallys. Miss O'Neil's portrayal of Lucy Tingle demonstrated that she is a superb comedienne as well as the American queen of tragedy. Miss O'Neil has nothing to fear through comparison of her Lucy Tingle with that of other great actresses who have achieved fame in "The School for Scandal."

At the matinee this afternoon Miss O'Neil played "Camille" to a packed the costumes and scenery being simply splendid. Edith Mason sings delightfully in "Camille," and the play is a decided success.

Thomas W. Edwards, wife of the manager of the Academy of Music, Montreal, Canada, is very ill at her residence, 211 East Fourteenth street, New York. Mrs. Edwards was formerly Mack Young, and was a well-known and popular actress.

Maggie Harriet Davidge, widow of William Davidge, who has been ill with nervous prostration in Philadelphia, is returning to San Francisco, and her physicians think that convalescence is at hand.

Edith Barrymore lost a purse containing a considerable sum of money while playing at Kalamazoo, Michigan, on November 6th. She left the purse on a table in the dressing-room, and when she was on the stage a boy thief reached in at window and captured the purse.

Margaret Anglin was ill on November 4th, when her role of Mimi in "The Only Way" at the Garden Theater, New York was played admirably by Tessie Bussey at short notice.

Amelia Stone, the American soprano, is singing successfully in a Berlin Music hall.

THE RAILROAD POET.

James Riddon, the round-house poet, has offered the following contribution this week:

RETROSPECTION.

When my nightly toll is ended and I seek the quiet repose, Of all the places, my bed-room, with the midnight light streaming through, I often sit a thinking, as the bygone years disclose Many happy remembrances and many sad ones, too.

I keep thinking of life's changes, while looking o'er the road, That has left its tell-tale traces on my brow.

But I wonder how I carried such a heavy, heavy load; But I was stronger then and stronger than I'm now.

I think of golden chances Madam Fortune bringin' at me, And the many cups of joy that I have tasted.

Then a sight of sadness steals o'er my reverie— Thinking of hay-making days that I have wasted.

It is shown in the third act, when six Kentucky thoroughbreds due at full speed across the stage in a race, that the horses were produced in a theater.

"In Old Kentucky" has another week to run at the New Alhambra.

It is not generally known that the New Alhambra Theater is one of the largest playhouses in San Francisco, and that a large number of people go to that or the Grand Opera House, and second only to that of the Orpheum. The New Alhambra will seat over 2,000 people, and the boxes are so arranged that the big house can be emptied in less than three minutes. There are seven wide exits on the main floor and four from the gallery.

THEATRE.

This is the last week of the grand opera season, which was intended to run eight weeks, but proved so successful that it was extended to fifteen weeks.

The Italian artists, Saccassi and Avetta, have won the hearts of the Tivoli public, and the scores of new and amateur artists, and the performances this week have been a series of personal ovations. They will be heard for the last time this season tomorrow night in "Aida." It is to be hoped that these great artists will be received by the Metropolitan management for next year's grand opera season. "Mortimer" has terminated with grand opera this week, and the old favorite has been capably sung by the light opera company.

THE ALCAZAR.

There remains but two more performances of "Mr. Plaster of Paris" at the Dewey Theater—too bad for the play had drawing merits enough to have held the boards for another week, and even exceed the present record. The piece has been most excellently presented and is on of the funniest plays ever seen in this city. "Mr. Plaster of Paris" will close with tomorrow evening's performance, to be followed by "The Westerner." There will be presented by the management a special matinee Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, as well as the customary matinees on Saturday.

"The Westerner" is a most thrilling drama, and the scenes take place in New York city and deal in a mining transaction. Previous to the opening of the play James Errol was robbed of a large amount of gold just by a man named Murphy. This scene at the rise of the curtain took place at the home of Mr. Lawton, a capitalist, who is under the power of Dan Farland, alias Burke, and who is interested with Lawton in the San Diego mines.

The miners are rich, but bumpkinish—representing their value on the stock market is lowered by a charge of forgery made by Burke against Lawton's son which deeply affects the old gentleman. The son of James Errol, a Westerunner, appears on the scene. Mr. Lawton, governed by old associations, offers the son of his old friend partnership.

Young Errol recognizes Burke at the same time that his father does, and determines to thwart his schemes. Burke, however, makes no effort to lower the value of the San Diego mines.

Errol, on the other hand, avers the truth that Burke tries to bring about and redems the honor of his family.

It is stated that H. V. Esmond has decided to change the name of his latest play from "The Trinity" to "Watchers," some discussions having arisen over the extreme irreverence of the first title. Nat Goodwin holds the American rights to this play.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

William H. Crane has decided that "A Rich Man's Son" will be the only play on his tour this season.

Joseph Arthur has written a new play of New York life entitled "Johnny." It will be produced by Lester and Company in December.

Edwin Denby is at work upon a new comic opera that may be produced next season by Frank Daniels.

Wilson Barrett contemplates a revival of Henry V.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Evangelion" has hit the popular taste as evidenced by the crowded state night of the Grand Opera House. In fact, several times during the week the theater has been entirely sold out. The production is a most gorgeous one, and the cast is a brilliant one.

Jessie Bartlett Davis has decided to decline to defer her starring until next season.

Edna May will be seen as Hamlet in "Hamlet" at the Alhambra.
